HUSBAND AND WIFE SOLO

IN USD ORCHESTRA CONCERT

IMMEDIATE RELEASE

San Diego, California

Musicians Holly and Dirk Koman will give solo performances in the October 28 Orchestra Concert at the University of San Diego. Curtain time is 4:00 p.m. in Camino Theatre on the USD campus.

Holly Koman, piano, and Dirk Koman, trumpet, will play Shostakovich's "Concerto for Piano and Strings". This is the first time the musical couple has made a solo performance accompanied by full orchestration.

A member of the music faculties at USD and USIU, Mrs. Koman has played piano and organ since early childhood. She received a B.A. in music at William and Mary College, Virginia, and first met her husband as an accompanist.

Mr. Koman, educated at the New England Conservatory, and the School of Performing Arts gives trumpet instruction privately in Coronado where the Komans reside. He has performed with the San Diego Symphony, and both have played numerous recitals during their six years residence in San Diego.

The Komans will be accompanied by the 70 member ensemble conducted by Dr. Henry Kolar. The USD Symphony Orchestra concert program will include Beethoven's "Symphony Number 6 (Pastorale)" and Tschaikovsky's "1812 Overture". The concert is free and the public is invited to attend.
